FORMER WON THANKSGIVING FOOTBALL GAME WITH THE GREATEST EASE.

A VERY MUCH 'JUG-HANDLE SCORE'

It Was 56 to 6-Excursion Trains Run and Each Team Accompained by a Band-Details of the Contest.

In the presence of the largest as semblage of rooters and football enthusiasts that ever wi nessed a game on the local griding n, the football eleven of the Wentworth Military academy, of Lexington, administered a crushing defeat to the eleven of the Kemper Military academy, of Beonville, on the gridiren at Liberty park Thanksgiving afternoon, by a score of 56 to 6.

In less than five minutes' playing in the first half of the game the Wentworth team had scored a touchdown and kicked goal. From that time until the close of the first half the Kemper boys were at the mercy of the Wentworth team, being utterly unable to stop the terrible sh of the Lexington eleven.

The Wentworth team made ten touchdowns in the first half, while Boonville scored nothing. In the sec end half the Boonville team kicked off to Wentworth and managed to get the ball on a missed throw, running for a touchdown. A goal kick made the score 6. That ended Boonville's score getting, but they played earnestly until the close of the game, vainly trying to run up the score.

The crowd at the game was estimated at 1.500. The grand stand was filled to seating capacity, with standing room unoccupied, while rooters along the ground and in vehicles swelled the crowd.

Several members, of the two team were put out during the game, but soon returned and the day passed off without any one being injured.

SHOPPERS BECOMING EDUCATED.

This is the time of year when it is customary to call attention to the advisability of attending to Christmas shopping early. Perhaps nothing new can be said on the subject, and yet in spite of the fact that all will instantly agree with the suggestion that buying be done in advance of the holiday rush, practically every person has to be reminded over and over of

How many neglect the advice or turn a deaf ear to their own impulses is testified to by the great crowds that throng the shops the last few nights before Christmas. Still, we believe that, although the holiday rush may show no apparent decrease, the number of those who have the good sense and judgment to buy gifts early is rapidly growing each year. The custom of flocking to the stores at the last minute to secure presents has been hard to alter, but it is being gradually changed.

Of course, there will always be late purchasers who never go anywhere or do anything on time, frantically trying to find what is not to be had, after stocks have been depleted, and they will continue to make a good showing. They would be found at the counter or roaming the aisles if the stores were kept open till day light Christmas morning.

But the great majority of patronsthose who spend the money and demand something satisfactory in return for it, are being educated to the merits of early selections from fresh stocks. These discriminating persons have found that it is utterly impossible to buy what they want at the eleventh hour. Jostling, noisy crowds interfere and there is no time to properly consider what is offered for sale. Every shopper is the gainer by a little forethought in purchasing. The buyer who commences to lay in Christmas stock now finds the stock clean, fresh and at its best, the variety large, plenty of room in the stores and the clerks prepared to given prompt attention and good service. Every day from now on the variety diminishes and toward the holidays proper the crowds are so have little time to give customers. Where there is one person who is really unable for any reason to attend to Christmas shopping until Christmas eve or thereabout, there are hundreds with the time and opportunity and means to purchase the best the stores afford under the most favorable and pleasant conditions weeks in advance. This class is growing steadily and in the end it will constitute the big end of the Christis concerned.

WESTON'S PERFORMANCE AND ITE LESSON.

The performance of Edward Payson Weston, who has at the age of 69 years walked from Portland, Me., to Chicago, a distance of 1,230 miles, in less than twenty-six days, is remarkable. Autograph Fiend an Easy Mark of the Unscrupulous.

W. E. Collett, secretary of the Colorado Prison association, was talking in Denver about 50 autograph letters from widows that he recently received wherein each widow offered gladly to marry one of Mr. Collett's proteges, a reformed convict in search of a wife. "I shall keep most of those widows autographs," said Mr. Collett. "They are very interesting. A collection of autographs of such a character would be worth having, wouldn't it? Different from the usual dull collections of mere signatures, eh?"

He smiled and went on:

"An autograph fiend who collects mere signatures is rather a fool, and he is very easily taken in. Whenever I think of him, I think of a little story about him.

BUTTER BY THE YARD.

Dairy Product Is So Sold in City of Cambridge, England. In Cambridge, England, butter is sold by the yard. For generations it has been the practice of Cambridgeshire dairy folk to roll their butter into lengths, each length measuring a yard and weighing a pound. Deftly wrapped in strips of clean white cloth. the cylindrical rolls are packed in long, narrow baskets made for the purpose, and thus conveyed to market. The butter women who, in white linen aprons and sleeves, preside over the stalls in the market have no need of weights or scales for dispensing their wares. Constant practice and experienced eyes enable them with a stroke of the knife to divide a yard of butter into halves or quarters with almost mathematical exactness.

The university people are the chief buyers of this curiously shaped product. In addition to being famed for its purity and sweetness, Cambridge

Arthur M. Abell in his sympathetic memorial article on Joachim tells the following interesting story of von Moltke and the great violinist. A more ardent lover of music than Helmuth von Moltke never lived. He was an intimate friend of Joachim, and the great violinist was a frequent guest at his house. When the two illustrious men were quite alone Joachim would take his violin and play Spohr adagios for hours-for Moltke would hear nothing else on such occasions. Once, Joachim, after having played Spohr to him for two hours, said: "Wouldn't you like to hear a couple of Hungarian dances for a change?" 'No." replied von Moltke. "I prefer Spohr adagios; if you don't tire of playing them, I never tire of hearing them." So the violinist kept on with

BEFORE THE KING OF KINGS.

Pious Man Could Not Suffer Interruption to Player.

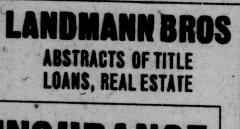

A pious man was engaged in prayer while traveling on the highway. One of the nobles of the land, who knew him, was passir by, and saluted him, but the pious man did not mind the salutation and continued his prayer. The nobleman became vexed, and with a great effort he waited till the man had finished his prayers; whereupon he, in an excited manner, said to him: "Thou art a stupid fellow for thou hast sinned against thine own law, which commands man to take care of life. But thou has just risked thy life unnecessarily. Why did you not respond to my salutation? If I had split your head open with my sword, who could have called me to account?"

"Sir! I pray, suppress your wrath; I hope to quiet you, if you will allow me only a few words in reply. Think for instance, that while you were standing in conversation with your king, a friend in passing by saluted you. Should you like to be interrupted in your conversation with the king in order to answer that salutation?" "Woe unto me, if I were to do so."

"Now, I pray, dear sir! consider! only the respect you thus pay to man! A mortal man, who is here to-day and to-morrow in the grave, while I myself, who stood facing the King of Kings, the immortal King, what should I have done?"

The nobleman assuaged his wrath, and the pious man continued his journey in peace.

CARE OF TABLE LINEN.

One Great Mistake That Is Made by Some Housewives.

It matters not how neatly one may have the table arranged, if the table linen is not spotlessly white the appearance is marred by the defeet. Care must be taken of fine table linen or it soon gets the yellow "dip" so much dreaded by careful housewives. The first mistake is made by throwprice. Call and see-we can show with napkins which are damp, and they always are when the finger bowls are used. Each piece should be dried and stains removed before placing it away for washing. To properly wash them they cannot be made pure and white if placed in with other clothes. Sedalia Awning & Mattress Co This is a warning to heed. Soak the linen in tepid water for three-quarters of an hour, and always wring the pieces by hand, for wringer creases do not come out at times even under a heavy hot iron. Next put the clothes in a good suds, wash carefully and put in a boiler of cold water which has nothing but borax to soften it. Bring the water to a boil, give the pieces a second suds, then carefully rinse. Two persons should stretch the long tablecloths and place on a line, hanging them perfectly even. In ironing they must be rather damp. Fold side to side with one seam only. Iron perfectly dry antil a gloss appears. They must not be starched, since good linen is stiff enough when properly ironed. Hang the pieces over a rod where they hang perfectly straight and allow to dry before they are put away. Now would you know why it is that some women have their table linen always looking price, per ton$4.00 new? It is done in folding the ironed pieces. CHILD OF CRUELTY Is a potent builder of the bond

PART OF THE HEROINE IN THE GREAT PLAY, "THE BISH-OP'S CARRIAGE."

Miss Busley Spent Many Days Ob serving the Walk and Talk of Women of Misfortune and Crime-Novel Experience.

When Miss Jessie Busley was handed the manuscript for Channing Pollock's play and dramatization of Miriam Nichelson's charming story "In the Bishop's Carriage," she at ence set out to study the character in all its peculiar lights and shades. The part appealed to her from the firstthe story of a girl thief, a child of 'Cruelty," (a poor house), who is taught to steal food at first, then she steals because she knows no better. From a child in short dresses she develops into an expert pickpocket and assists burglars in their infamous schemes.

Miss Busley was attracted at first by the audacity which this girl displays in her crooked career. She figured it out that the girl, good at heart, must be played with reckless abandon, yet with the feminine regard for others in distress. She at once put herself into communication with her managers, Liebler & Co., and requested that they assist her in get ting a closer view of this class of girls in the women prisons of New York City. ALL SWISS MAY BEAR ARMS.

Entire Population Drilled and Liable to Be Called On to Fight.

The army of Switzerland, theoretically 50,000 strong, is practically invisible except at some afternoon rifle shooting or target shooting, on the rifle range of the commune. Guar anteed in its neutrality, and landbounded by the guarantors, Switzerland, says the Boston Transcript, has really no enemies from whom milies of society. The elementary military drill is taken by boys at ten years of age as play and gymnastics at school. At 17 all the youth of Switzerland are taken bodily into the army, every one of them, and from that age to 50 each is liable for service in defense of his country, and, in fact, does give up of his time from study, business or pleasure, as the case may be, from 45 days a year, when he is 20, to 16 days every other year till he is 32, after which the demand of the army upon him is for only nine days' service in every four years until he is 44. The basic principle is that every ablebodied man should accustom himself in the use of arms and thus the home of democracy claims at the same time to be the first of the European nations to introduce universal military service.

Yet you seldom see a soldier in Switzerland, where all the civilians are by turns soldiers; it is another case of not being able to see the forest for the trees. The general staff is the only permanent and visible part of the half million military hosts. It consists of the commander-in-chief, who receives a salary of ten dollars a day, and his staff. Yet the Tell legend persists in enthusiasm with which the Swiss citizen soldiery take their tours of duty as they arrive to each and all. The wealthy taxpayer stands in the ranks side by side with the mechanic; the broker from the city and the peasant from the mountains share the same quarters and equal hardships. There are no crack corps; the career is open to talents: each is assigned tasks according to abilities; the son of a groom may work himself to the position of the only general, and the rich man's son may graduate from the army as groom, tidying the barracks. It is said that the Swiss enlisted men perform feats of mountain climbing with their mule-borne artillery that make available points of vantage which to the ordinary military eye would seem inaccessible. An army that makes the smallest possible draft on the public purse and on the labor supply of the country and yet includes in its personnel all callings and every man who is physically fit and not more urgently demanded, say as railroad man or telegrapher, is the ideal military establishment for a democratic

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local. Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional. The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treat-ment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood a fiments. The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mncous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed trength, vigor, and energy. Keeping Off Trespassers.

How to warn off trespassers without spring guns has been discovered by a canny peasant in the south of France. His woods were invaded by nut pickers. He asked a botanical friend the teen days, or in about the same time | Latin name for the hazel nut, and put up the following notice: "Caution-All persons entering this wood do so the sailing ship Dreadnought made at their own risk. The Corylus Avellana abounds here, as well as other equally venomous snakes." Not a trespasser has ventured into the wood

STUYVESANT FISH, JR., IS FIRE-MAN ON THE FRISCO OUT OF WICHITA.

COACH, CAB AND CABOOSE ITEMS

Matters of Interest Picked Up From Various Sources for the Benefit of Democrat-Sentinel Readers.

After working for four months as way-bill clerk in the Frisco freight office at Muskogee, Ok., Stuyvesant Fish, Jr., son of the former president of the Illinois Central, is now a fireman on the Rock Island road.

His friends were surprised when young Fish took off his coat and set to work as an ordinary clerk, but that was nothing to their astonishment when they found him in a grimy, coal-blackened suit shoveling coal into the Rock Island engines. His intention is to learn the railroad business from the bottom.

State Railway Laws Held Up.

Judge Thomas G. Jones, of the United States district court at Birmingham, Ala., late Wednesday afternoon granted a restraining order which has the effect of temporarily suspending all of the railroad legislation just passed by the legislature as applied to the Louisville and Nashville, the South and North Alabama, the Nashville, Chattanooga and St Louis and the Central of Georgia rail-

$5,000 for Engineer's Widow.

Ida Hach, widow of an engineer on the Iron Mountain railroad, was awarded $5,000 for the death of her husband near Sikeston. The opinion, written by Judge Woodson, was filed in the supreme court Wednesday.

The court finds that the company was guilty of negligence in not keeping its track in repair. The engineer lost his life in an accident that derailed the engine and several cars. The evidence showed that the presence of rotton ties and a badly ballasted track was responsible for the accident.

"UNCLE JOE" BACK AGAIN

CHAIR WHEN CONGRESS MEETS MONDAY.

NO ONE DARE CONTEST FOR HONOR

The House Machinery Consists of 62 Committees, and Hon. Joseph Cannon, of Danville, Ill., Is the "Big Chief."

Special to the Democrat-Sentinel. sixtieth congress convenes in Washington three days hence the familiar figure of "Uncle Joe" Cannon will be seen in its accustomed place in the speaker's chair. No one has dared to contest for the honor, and Uncle Joe semblance of a struggle.

As a matter of fact there has not been a contest for the speakership since the convening of the fifty-second congress in December, 1891. In the fifty-first congress there was struggle for supremacy between five republicans, but Thomas B. Reed was chosen on the second ballot. The other candidates were William Mc-Kinley, of Ohio, Joseph G. Cannon, of Illinois, Julius Burrows, of Michigan, and David B. Henderson, of Iowa. Both Henderson and Cannon subsequently achieved the coveted honor.

That was the last contest in the republican party for the speakership, although seven republican congresses have been elected since that time. he contest for speaker in the democratic c icus in 1891, however, was the most hotly waged battle of its kind known since the long drawn out contest before the civil war. Roger Q. Mills, of Texas, and Charles F. Crisp, of Georgia, were the favorites in the race, although William S Holman, of Indiana, and William S. Springer, of Illinois, "also ran." The of finishing "in the money," however, and they finally gave their influence to Crisp, who secured the post. Holman was rewarded with the chairmittee, while Springer was made the chairman of the ways and means committee of the house. Two years later Crisp was again chosen without tirement from the house immediately he went ostensibly on a "vacation." resulted in the beginning of an open fight among the various aspirants for the honor of being his successor. Many candidates appeared, among certain of success at the adjourned them Cannon and Hopkins, of Illirois, Sherman and Payne, of New York, Henderson, of Iowa and Dal zell, of Pennsylvania.

By a species of wire-pulling that has always been a source of wonderment to the people of Illinois, Hopkins secured control of the delegation from that state and became their official candidate. "Uncle Joe" was the most popular man in the house, and except for the opposition of his colleagues from Illinois, would undoubtedly have been elected at that time. The action of the Illinois congressmen in declaring for Hopkins as against Cannon, arousel 'the resent's ment of members from other states. and, in order to defeat Hopkins, they agreed upon Dave Henderson, of Iowa. This selection took place several months before congress convened, and the name of the lowa man was the only one presented at the caucus. Hopkins had successfully played the part of the dog in the manger, and in this he incurred the resentment of the people of his home state. The political memory is noterlously short, however, and Hopkins was later rewarded with a senatorial

After serving two terms Henderson suddenly announced his withdrawal. Why he did-this remains one of the congressional mysteries that has never been solved. Long before the fiftyeighth congress had assembled Uncle Joe Cannon had become the unanimous choice of the state delegations and republican members from every part of the country. He was again elected to the speakership without opposition when the fifty-ninth congress met, and this process is again to be repeated. Apparently, Uncle Joe has a life tenure on the speakership, unless the republicans should ose their majority in the house or the Illinois states should attain his cleverly concealed ambition to occupy a station considerably higher than the WILL OCCUPY THE SPEAKER'S speakership of the house of representatives.

The house machinery consists of sixty-two committees. Speaker Cannon will follow precedent and build up the committees around the skeletons of the committees that served in the fifty-ninh congress. As a result of the last election of congressmen the house lost thirteen of its chair merchant marine and fisheries, were of little importance. E. Stevens Henry will doubtless succeed James W. CAUSED MEN TO LAUGH.

But Women Saw No Reason for Levity in Ruined Headgear.

Men's sense of humor is peculiar. For example, every man in the vicinity of Broadway and Spring street chuckled gleefully the other day over an accident that reduced the women present to a state of tears. A small, one-horse wagon loaded with packing cases was run into by a heavy truck. The small wagon was hit so hard that several of the cases were jolted off and broken open, scattering the contents over the street. The demolished merchandise consisted of women's headgear. There were felt and velvet hats, feathers, flowers and ribmilliner, and the feathers and flowers were crushed. That was what tickled

Danger of Engineer Being Stricken with Illness or Death While in Cab Is Very Real, as Pointed Out.

On the physical and mental condi tion of the locomotive engineer de pend the safety of his train and the lives of the passengers, says a writer happen if he suddenly dies or is taken ill? This question is discussed sporadically in the press, and certain types of locomotive in which the fireman and engineer are widely separated, leaving the latter practically alone in his cab. have been condemned on this ground. An editorial writer in the Railway and Engineering Review (Chicago, July 27) regards it as remarkable that so few accidents have happened from trains running with out control, caused by the sudden ill ness or sudden death of engineers at their posts. He says:

"Occasionally an in: ce of this kind has occurred, and times past some one would propose, now and then, that an extra employe be sta tioned on each locomotive, like the lookout on a ship, with no other duty than that of constantly watching ahead for obstruction. Such a plan would discover anything wrong with the engineer in proper time, but the idea has never found lavor from practical considerations. Nevertheless every recurring instance of the sudden incapacitation of an engineer suggests grave possibilities of an accident. How many of the accidents from unexplainable causes might have happened in this way is at least an interesting thought to reflect upon The facts of experience are sufficient ly numerous to uphold a view of the reasonableness of such thoughts.

"During the early part of this month

we reported a collision which occurred on the Mobile & Ohio railroad caused by the engineer of a passenger train falling unconscious at his post, the train running past a station where a stop should have been made, and the fireman not discovering what was wrong in time to stop the train before collision with a switch-engine occurred. Recently the engineer of a passenger train of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railway, approaching Cleveland, was overcome by heat fell unconscious at the throttle. Fortunately the fireman observed the engineer's condition in time to prevent accident to the train. During the same week the engineer of a have become suddenly insane, and ran his train a considerable distance at i imaginary enemy in pursuit, in spite of vigorous efforts of his fireman to prevent him. Eventually the head brakeman returned from a trip to the powered the unfortunate man and assumed control of the train. According to the newspaper reports this engineer had just recovered from a spell of sickness and had gone out on his regular run without displaying any evidence of his mental condition. We have not taken pains to verify this report, and while the account may be

The Atchison family was terribly upset. The news had just been broken to them by Derrick Atchison himself that he was going to be mar-

What stunned them most was his way of telling them this quite naturally, as if it was nothing unusual. It was just as if he had been in the habit of announcing every day of his life that he had matrimonial intentions.

"The idea of his thinking of getting married!" almost wept Mrs. Atchison that evening to her husband. "Why didn't you tell him he was foolish instead of just sitting there! Derrick's a mere boy yet-he's so awfully young!"

"He's 28," commented Derrick's father, gruffly, biting his cigar and frewning.

"It seems just the other day that he was playing marbles and wearing out his stockings at the knees," said Mrs. Derrick, tearfully. "I just came to believe it! It seems too ridiculous! Why can you imagine Derrick-that irresponsible boy-at the head of a house

"Flat," corrected Atchison, with the suspicion of a grin. "No, I can't say that I have a picture of Derrick picking out a good steak on his way to the train to be sent up or frequenting intelligence offices. I don't believe he'd know a steak in its natural state from a sofa cushion or have courage to face a cook in search of a job. It seems funny to have a boy you've taken across, your knee and spanked talk about getting married."

'A don't suppose we can stop him, e'ther," said his mother, gloomily. "He's awfully set in his ways. And to think that he's going to marry a girl I've never laid eyes on but once! It seems so unnatural, somehow! He might have considered me a little! He knows it takes me so long to get a quainted with strangers. I'm sure there were lots of nice girls around home here. I expect she led him on. She had on a brown dress the day saw her and I never did like brown. She's not at all his style of girl." "Grace Little," said Derrick's fath

A boy as handsome as Derrick and with as good a salary and everything-he has always gone in such good society-oh, it's a scheme clear through! He says she is only 22, but I've no doubt she's years older I suppose she is wild with joy at having landed him. And her mother-oh I can imagine how complacent her mother must be these days at having got her daughter settled at last! How she will talk to the neighbors and enjoy herself! "I don't want to!" flashed Mrs. Atchison. "I suppose that's where Derrick is gone now since dinner. All these years in his own home and now he deserts us for Grace Little's mother's house! They've simply hypnotized him! My boy never would treat his parents so if he were not bewitch

"Still, it's the natural thing to get married," said Atchison. "It's done every day.'

I'll have to smile and pretend that like it! It's a big feather in any girl's cap to marry Derrick!

"He's a fine chap," admitted hi father," even if he is my own son!' Several days later Derrick's mother went in state, haughtily tolerant to call on Grace Little and her mother, who by arts and wiles had lured her only son into their net and now sat triumphant over the sacrifice. She began telling her husband about the call be

The entire inner portion of the body is covered with mucous membrane; this membranous tissue is abundantly supplied with blood vessels, veins, arteries, and capillaries. Each of these is constantly supplying to this tissue or lining, blood to nourish and strengthen it and keep the system healthy. When the blood becomes infected with catarrhal matter it is not able to furnish the required amount of healthful properties, but feeds the parts with impurities which disease the membranes and tissues so that they become irritated and inflamed, and Catarrh, with all its disagreeable and dangerous symptoms, is established in the system. There is a constant ringing in the ears, a thin, watery discharge from the nostrils, the breath has an offensive odor, slight fever often accompanies the disease, and gradually the entire health becomes affected and the system upset and deranged. In its earlier stages, when Catarrh is confined to the nose and throat, sprays, washes, inhalations, etc., are soothing and in a way beneficial, because they are cleanly and usually antiseptic, but such treatment has no curative effect, because it does not reach the blood. To cure Catarrh the blood must be purified, and this is just what S. S. S does. It goes down into the circulation and attacks the disease at its foundation; it removes the cause and makes the blood pure and healthy. Then the blood vessels are filled with fresh, reinvigorated blood, which is carried to all Franklin field, Philadelphia, was the mucous surfaces and linings, the inflam- | again selected as the scene of the mation and irritation are corrected, the symp- battle and the Navy won its first vic toms all disappear the health is improved and Catarrh is permanently cured. tory in years by a score of 10 to 0.

Philadelphia, Nov. 29.—The advance guard of rooters for the annual football game between Annapolis and West Point is beginning to drift into Philadelphia today and every indication points to a record-breaking crewd when the Army and Navy line up tomorrow on Franklin field. As usual, the war and navy departments of the national government will be represented by high officials at the game. Advices from Annapolis and West Point state that large bodies of students from both institutions will accompany their respective elevens to Philadelphia. For the last few weeks both elevens have been practicing constantly in preparation for the annual contest, and, on the strength of the showing made recently, both teams should be in a condition to make the hottest and most closely contested football battle of the season. The series of football games be tween the Army and Navy schools of the government had its beginning in 1890, although for five years, from 1894 to 1899, inclusive, no games were played. Twelve games in all have been played, the Army being victorious in six, the Navy in five and the other game a tie.

Football had been played for years at Annapolis prior to 1890, when the Naval academy first met West Point. The soldiers had had little experience and were defeated by the sailors to the tune of 24 to 0. The Army turned the tables in 1891 by winning by a score of 32 to 16. In the third game the Navy had decidedly the best of the argument and won by a score of 12 to 4. The game of 1893 was played at Annapolis, and, after a close and exciting contest, the Navy won by a score of 6 to 4. This was the last game played on the home grounds of either contestants. At this time the authorities of the army and navy departments decided that the annual contest was subversive of discipuine and for a time it was discontinued. In 1899 the con- Brooklyn, N. Y. tests were resumed and have since been played on neutral grounds, Philadelphia having been the scene of all but one of them, which was played at Princeton. In 1899, after the resumption of hostilities, the Army won by a score of 17 to 5. In the following year the sailors were the victors. The score was 11 to 7.

During the next four years the Army was always the stronger. In 1901 the score was 11 to 5, in 1902 it was 22 to 6, in 1903 the Navy was overwhelmed 40 to 5 and in 1904 the score was 11 to 0.

In 1905 the game was played at Priceton and resulted in a tie, the final score being 6 to 6. On the whole, the Army was the stronger, but Annapolis was saved from defeat by Douglas, the great Navy back, who went into the game toward its close and scored a touchdown. Last year

Woman's Relief

Cardui, the woman's remedy, has been known for many years as "Woman's Relief," since it has positively proven its great value in the treatment of womanly diseases.

Twill help you, if you are a sufferer from any of the ills peculiar to women which can be reached by medicine. Why? Because it has done that for many thousands of other sick women, as grateful letters from them, received every day, clearly describe. Because its ingredients are exclusively vegetable, and contain no mineral or poisonous drugs.

For headache, backache, pressing-down pains, nervousness, irritability, and other symptoms of general female weakness, Cardui has been found quick and safe relief.

Mrs. R. L. Denney, of Huntsville, Ala., writes: "I think Cardui is far ahead of anything for weak women. It does me more good than any medicine I have ever taken. I cannot praise it too highly. I think it is the best woman's medicine on earth." Sold everywhere. Try it.
